SOUTH AFRICA

PROFILE

Design with intent.

I am Lukas Voigt, a South African graphic designer working across brand identity, editorial design and digital experiences.

I enjoy turning an idea into a visual system: how a mark is built, how type behaves, and how a design carries across different formats.

DGA SOFTWORKS

INDUSTRY REBRAND

An identity for a software studio that builds from scratch.

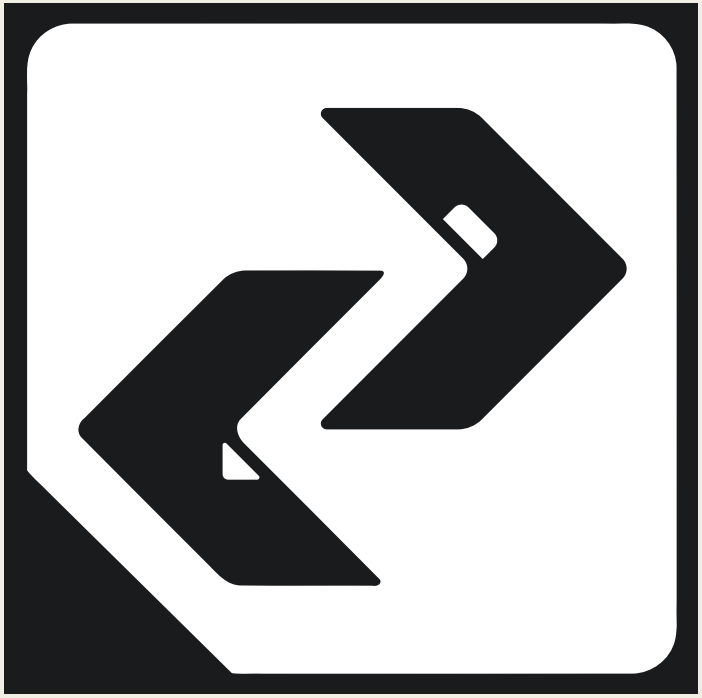

Role: research, identity design and presentation.
Developed during a six-week design internship.

Proposed stationery application from the supplied identity presentation.

THE BRIEF

Custom-built, clearly expressed.

DGAsoftworks

TECHNICAL + CREATIVE

The brief called for a modern identity that communicates precision and craft without feeling like generic corporate technology branding.

The angular mark gives the system a compact visual anchor. The wordmark supplies a quieter counterpoint for longer brand signatures.

Original symbol and wordmark retained from the supplied presentation.

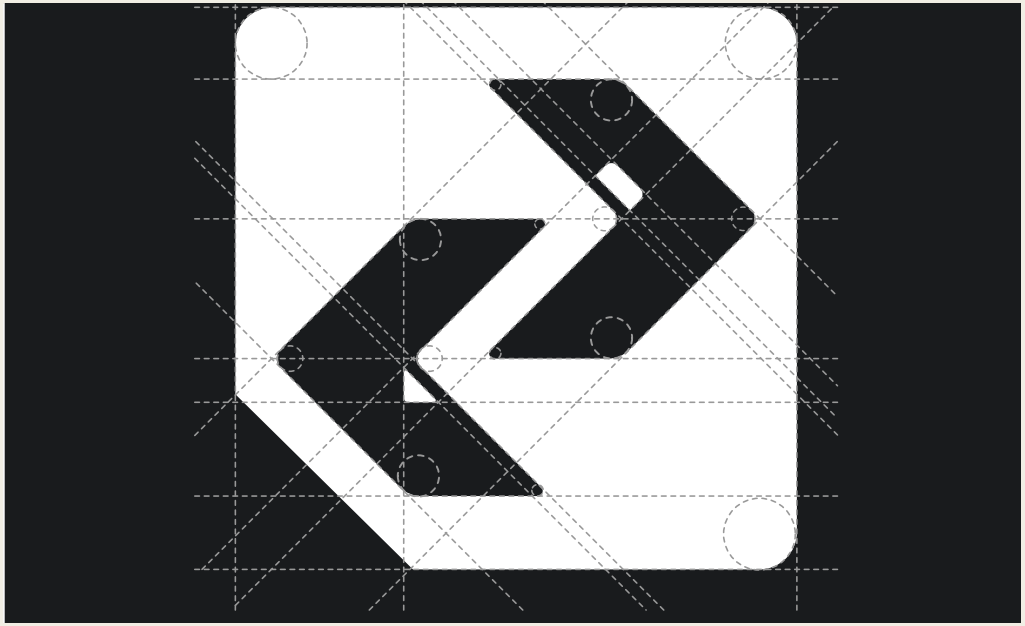

DESIGN REASONING

Code meets creative direction.

Two ideas, one mark.

The source presentation combines code-bracket forms with a drawing tool. The diagonal construction connects software development with creative craft.

Concept components and construction extracted from the original design presentation.

COLOUR AND CONTRAST

A restrained base. A vivid accent.

Charcoal	White	Carrot orange	Brick red	Eastern blue	Java
#1C1D1F	#F8F8F8	#EF8A1D	#BF2C43	#1A8CB7	#17DCB9

LIGHT AS AN ACCENT

Neutral surfaces keep the identity legible. Saturated light and gradient treatments introduce energy in promotional applications.

Palette values and gradient artwork follow the supplied brand presentation.

APPLICATIONS / 01

Identity in the hand.

BUSINESS CARDS

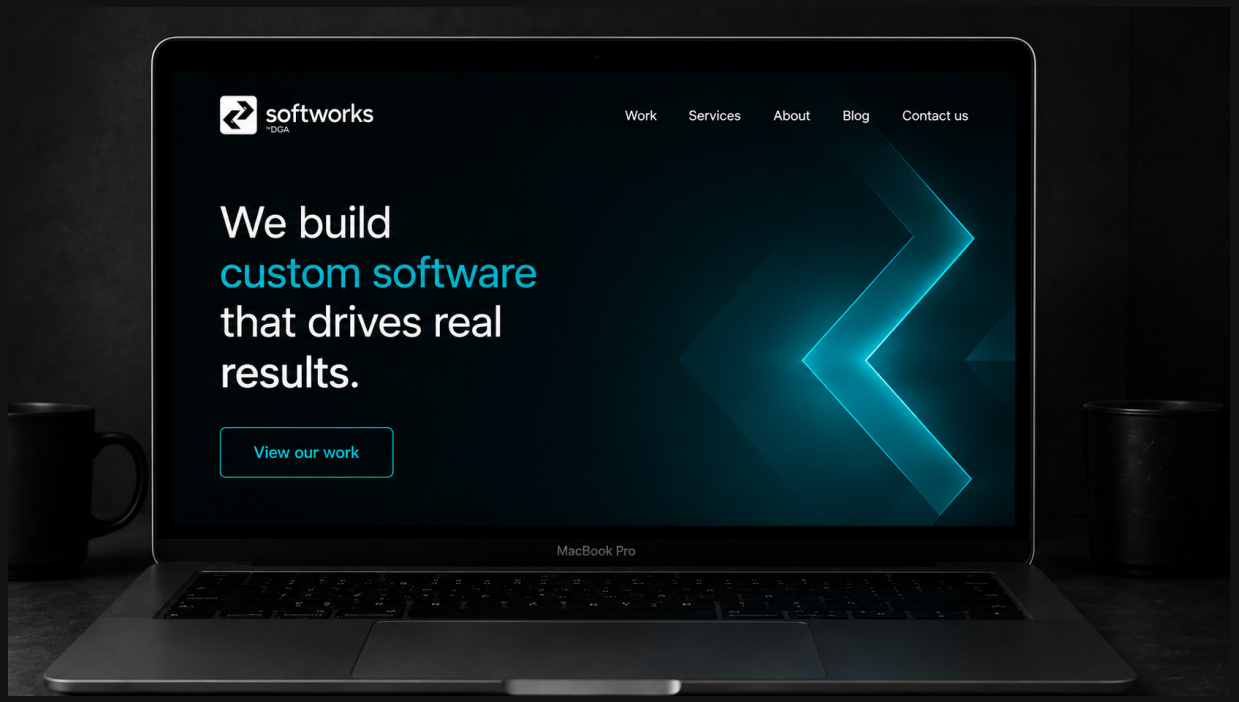

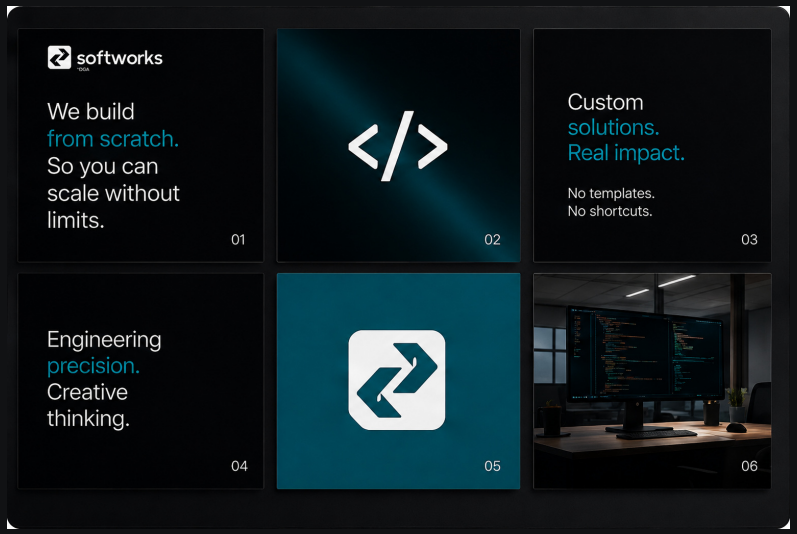

NOTEBOOK

Dark surfaces, a clear signature and controlled placement carry the identity into everyday objects.

APPLICATIONS / 02

One system across touchpoints.

The delivered presentation brings together the logo system, palette, construction and proposed brand applications.

Website and social media visualisations. These demonstrate the proposed identity; implementation and commercial performance are not claimed.

02

STEWARD

SPECULATIVE BRAND + DIGITAL

Preserving the feeling of analogue driving.

A future-facing brand concept exploring driver culture, synthetic fuel and an enthusiast-led digital experience.

FOCUS / IDENTITY + DIGITAL DESIGN

S400 concept visual from the supplied project. Speculative automotive imagery.

POSITIONING AND IDENTITY

Restraint with a distinctive signature.

STEWARD
ENGINEERING

The identity pairs a flowing emblem with an extended wordmark. The contrast gives the brand both a personal signature and an engineered tone.

The project is framed around enthusiast driving and considered restraint. Its visual identity extends into concept imagery and a desktop-first website.

Brand assets recovered from the original Steward presentation. Vehicle specifications and fuel benefits belong to the speculative scenario.

VISUAL NARRATIVE

A world built around the driver.

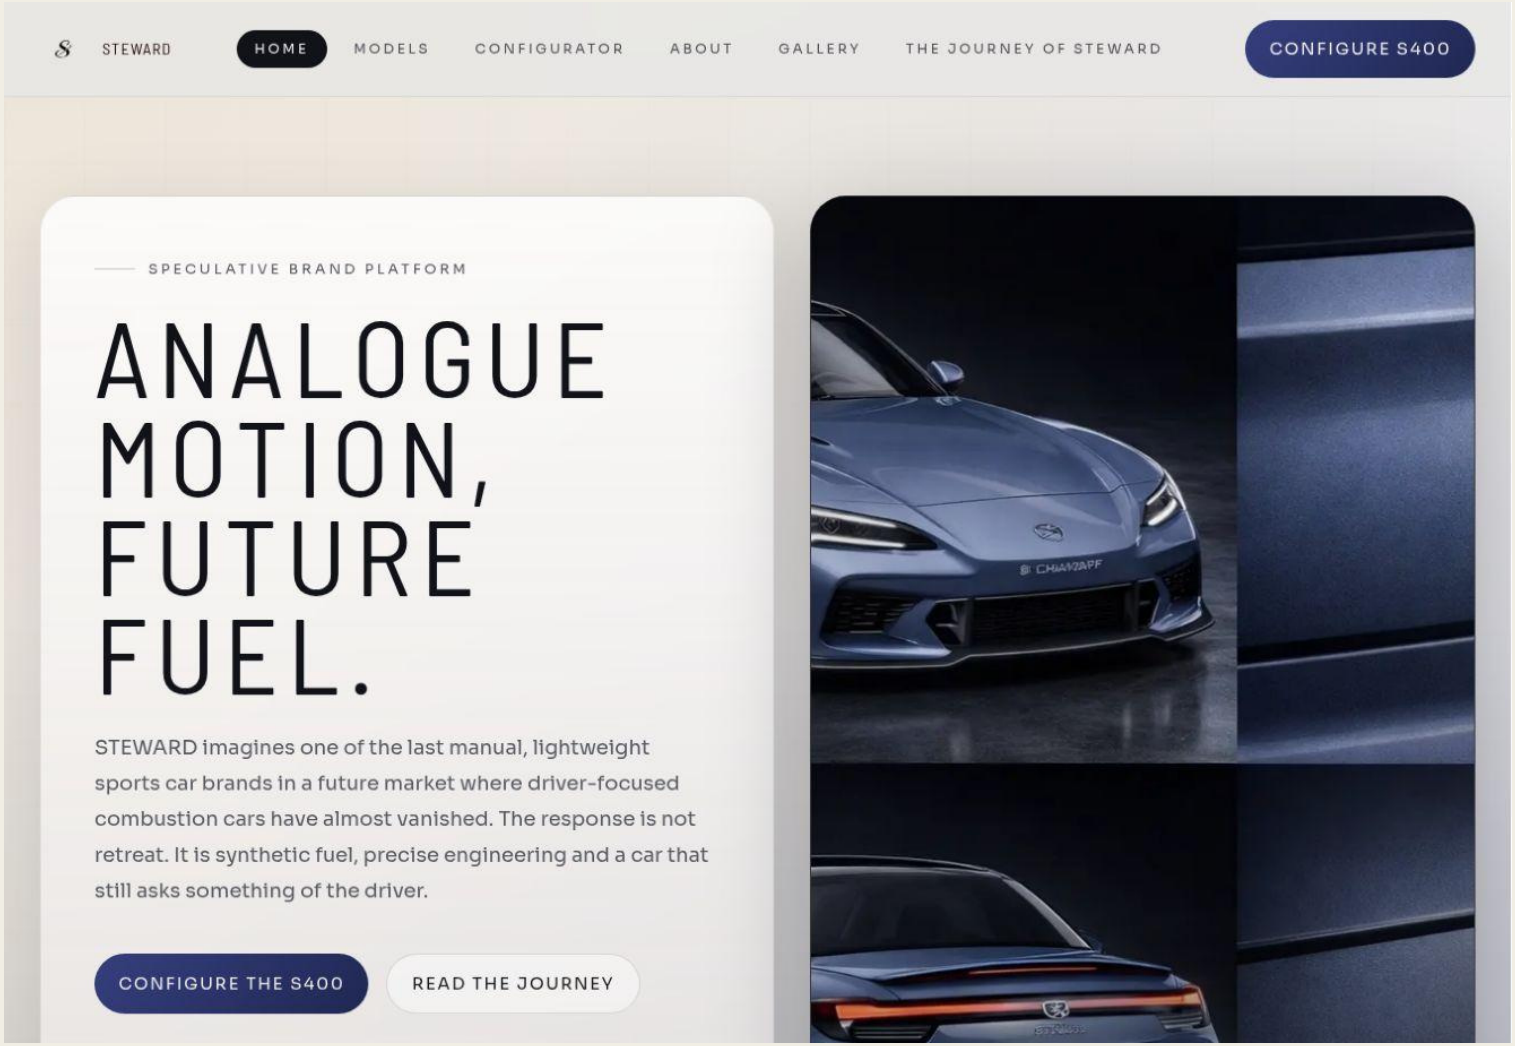

Exterior and interior concept visuals communicate the same proposition: compact proportions, tactile controls and an emphasis on driving.

DIGITAL EXPERIENCE / 01

The brand becomes a place to explore.

HOMEPAGE

A direct opening proposition introduces the project, with a clear route into the S400 configurator.

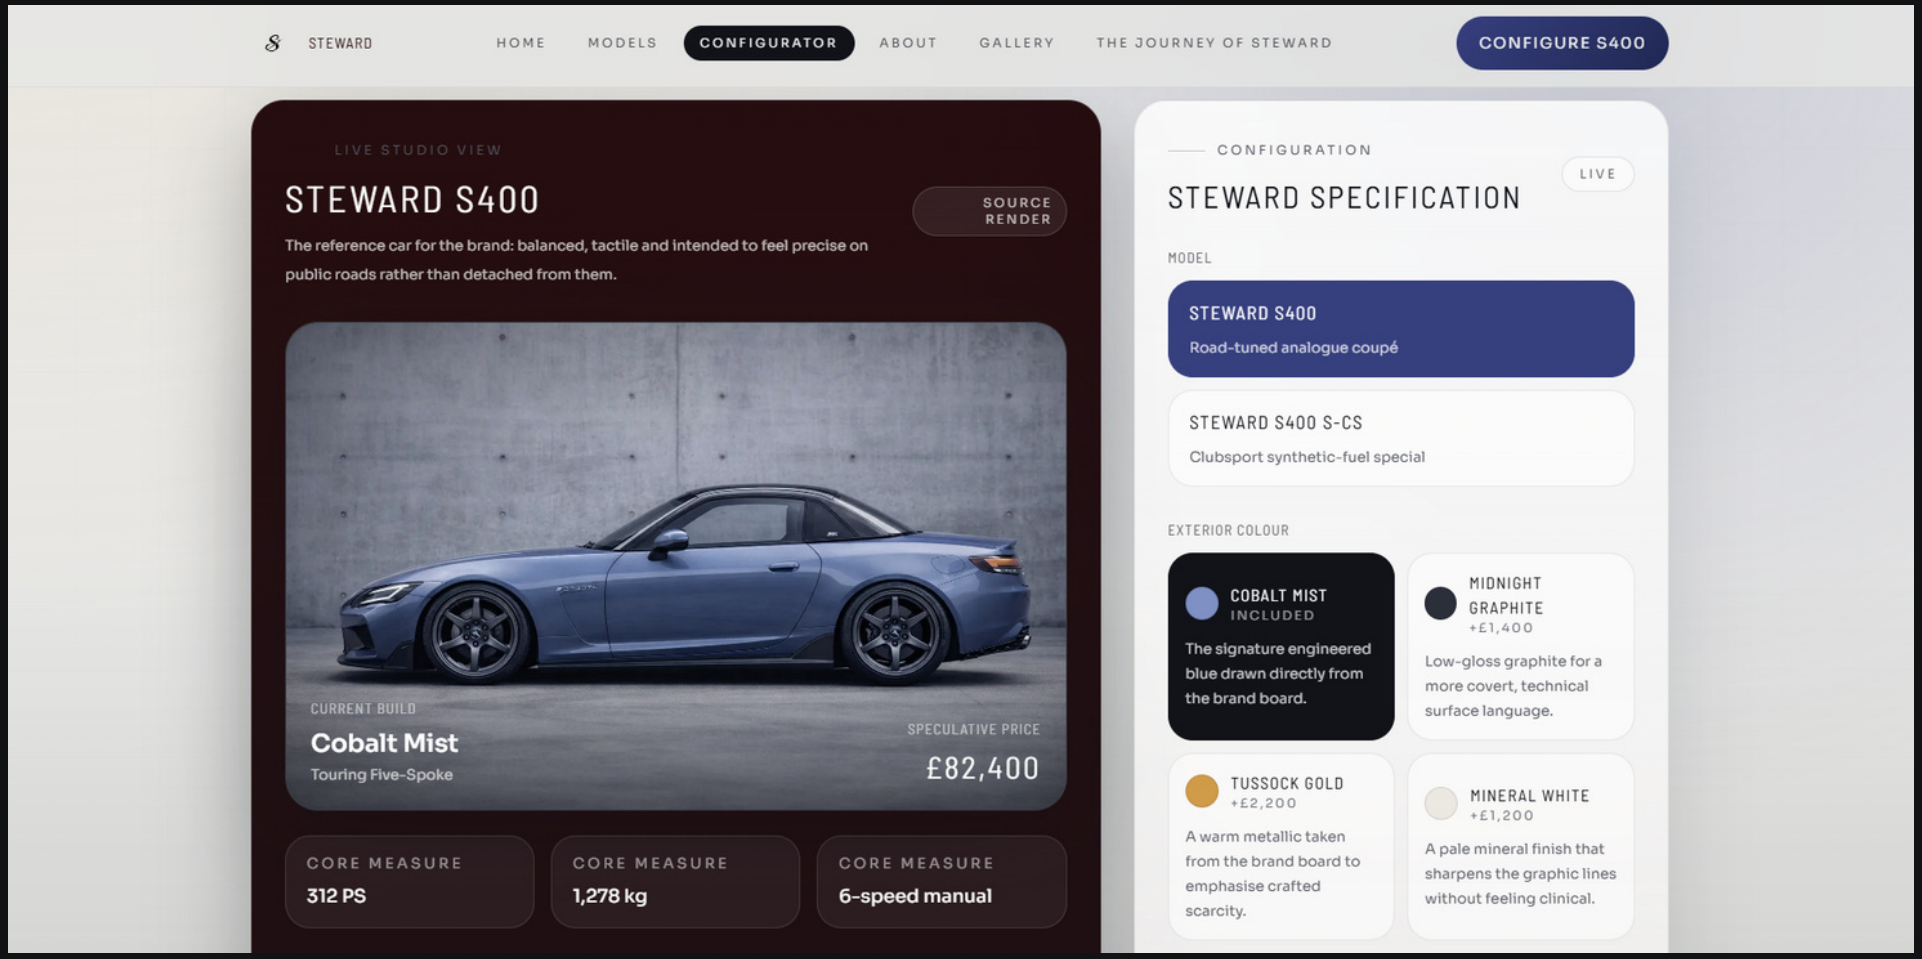

The navigation separates models, brand background, gallery and project narrative.

EXPLORE THE SITE

Live homepage capture / October 2026.

DIGITAL EXPERIENCE / 02

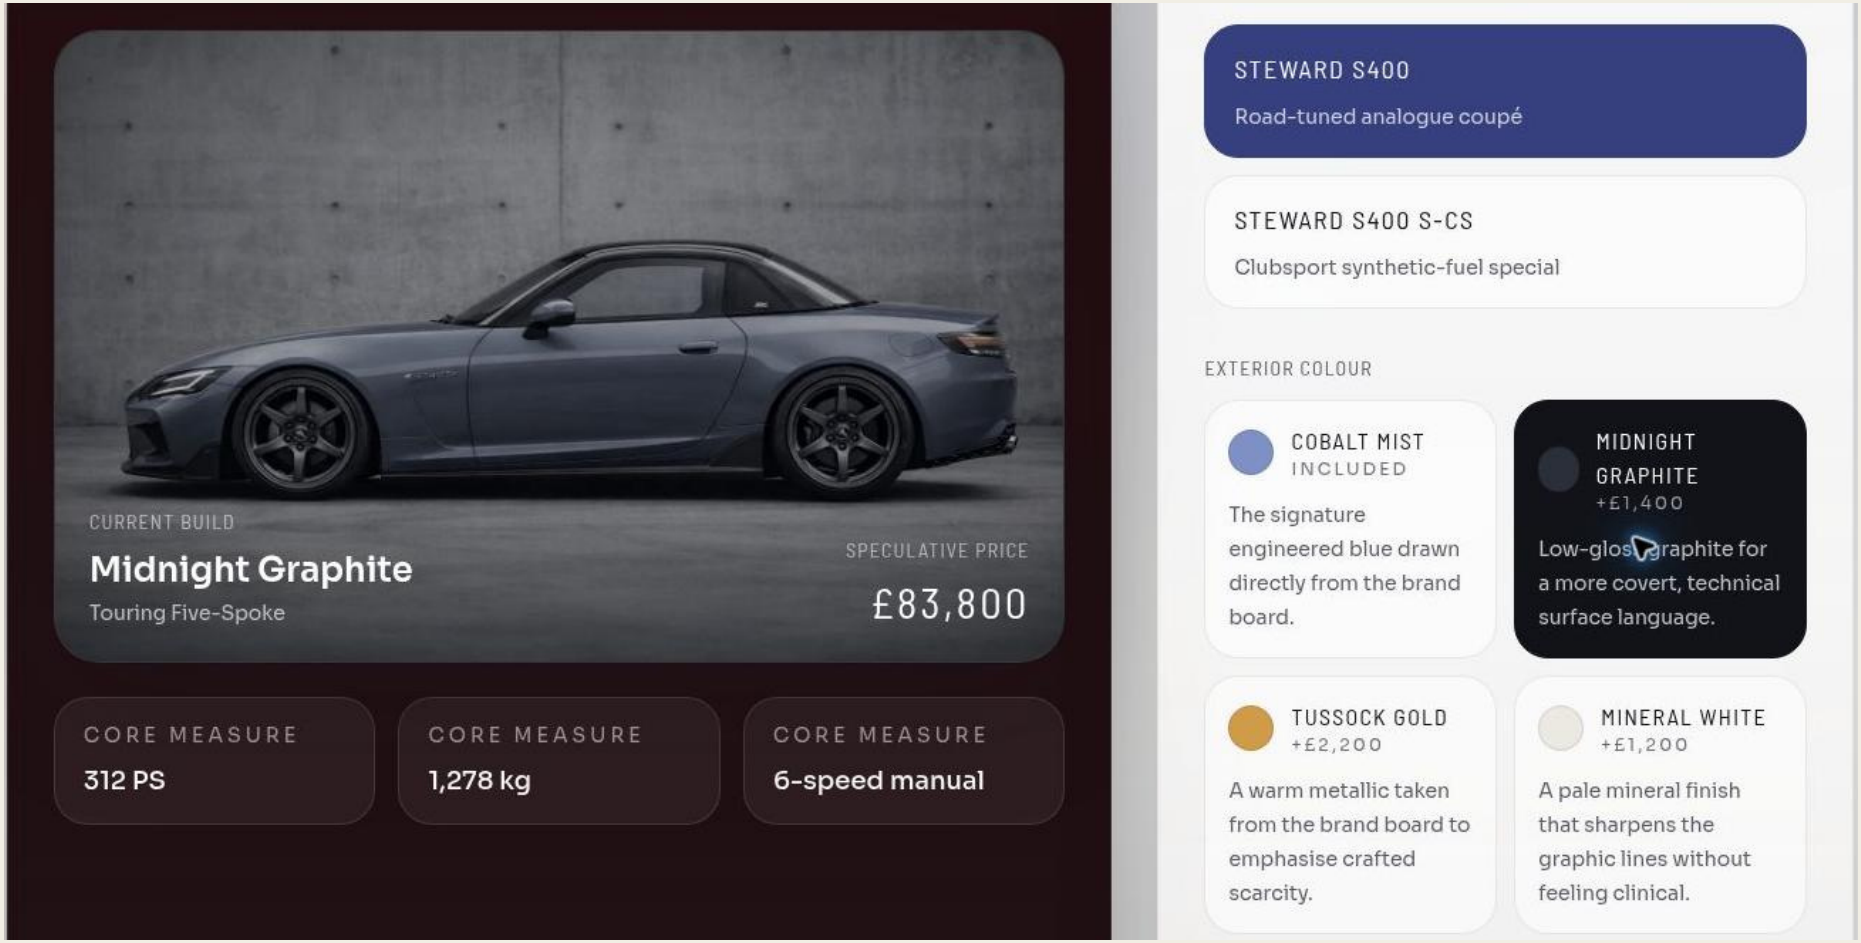

Make the specification visible.

Earlier interface design from the supplied presentation: preview and specification displayed side by side.

DIGITAL EXPERIENCE / 03

Choice, feedback and a running total.

Verified live example: selecting Midnight Graphite changes the finish label and the speculative price from £82,400 to £83,800.

03

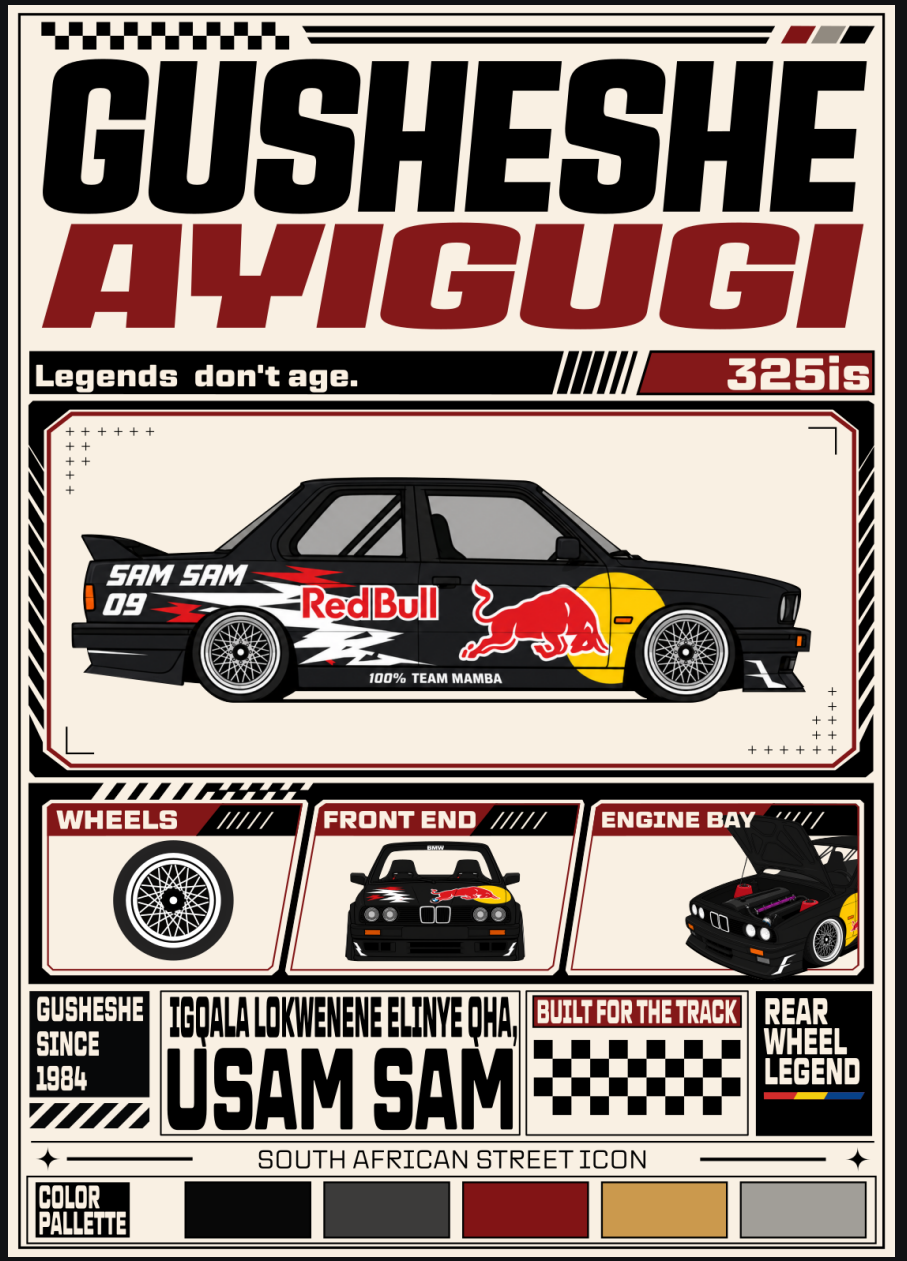

STREET ICONS

EDITORIAL POSTER SERIES

Local cars.
Shared memories.
Distinct graphic voices.

Five posters exploring South African automotive culture through illustration, typography and local phrases.

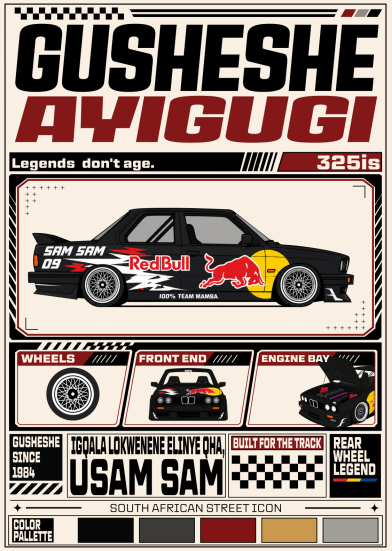

FOCUS / POSTER DESIGN + LAYOUT

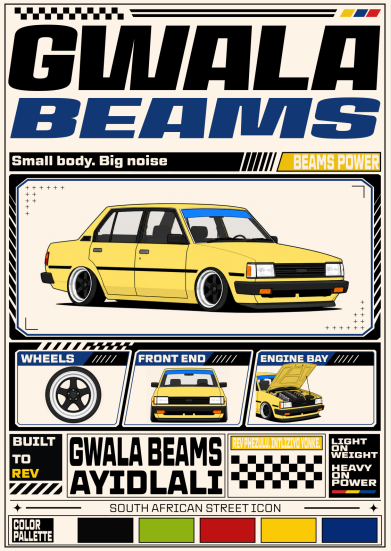

THE COLLECTION

Five cars. One visual system.

01 / THE HEADLINE

Large display type gives each vehicle a name and a recognisable attitude.

02 / THE VEHICLE

A side-view illustration anchors the composition and keeps the car central.

03 / THE DETAIL

Small panels, colour strips and mechanical details connect the collection.

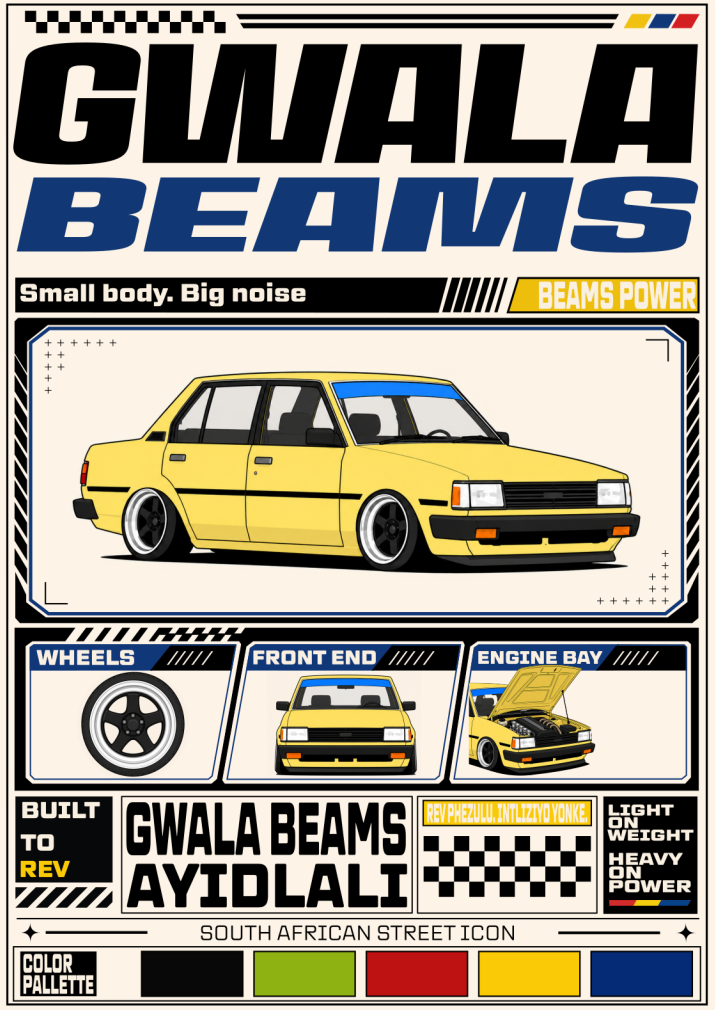

MK1 / Lime accent and condensed headlines.

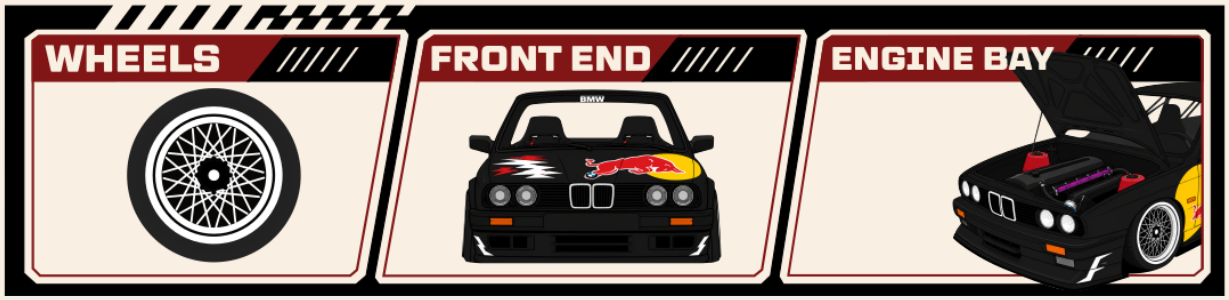

SUPERBOSS / Blue bodywork and red-yellow type.

HIERARCHY AND DETAIL

From the headline to the small print.

A repeated grid links the headline, main illustration and technical panels. Different colour accents and phrases allow each poster to carry its own character.

Right: enlarged detail from the E30 poster. Left: Gwala Beams.

A shared structure, a different attitude.

The Hilux edition carries the same editorial system into a different vehicle category. Olive bodywork and heavier stacked type give the page a distinct tone.

A complete five-poster digital series. Original wording and illustration retained.

04

AETHERIS

FESTIVAL IDENTITY CONCEPT

Electronic music, turned into a visual atmosphere.

A cyberpunk-inspired festival concept built around neon colour, layered graphics and an expressive wordmark.

FOCUS / IDENTITY + POSTER DESIGN

IDENTITY COMPONENTS

A name, a symbol and a colour signal.

Neon blue

Cyber pink

Electric cyan

Black

The wordmark carries the expressive personality; the monogram provides a compact alternative. Colour connects the poster and supporting applications.

POSTER DETAIL

Build energy through scale.

DISPLAY / INFORMATION

Oversized display lettering establishes the mood. Smaller information lines organise the programme, date and entry details.

The illustrated figure overlaps the graphic structure, creating depth within a flat poster format.

Enlarged crop from the original poster. Artwork and lettering have been preserved.

APPLICATIONS

From the poster to the city.

Merchandise detail recovered from the supplied brand board.

A REPEATABLE SIGNATURE

The outdoor application carries the poster into a public setting. The garment uses the wordmark as a simpler brand signature.

These are proposed festival applications. Immersive technology and responsive merchandise remain concept ideas, rather than tested deliverables.
